

How to do well when taking Progressive Driving School: In-classroom lessons

- *Attend all classes and get involved.
- *Take good notes (not just what's on the screen!)
- *Let us know if you have any special needs.
- *Use the course outline provided - know when homework and presentations are due.
- *Read the classroom book provided, take notes and ask questions.
- *Teach what you learn back to someone else (parents, friends, family) it helps you remember.
- *Be able to recall materials without notes.
- *Practice what you have learned in the family vehicle; even 'static' practice is meaningful:
  - *Do your cockpit checks and get to know your instruments and gauges.
*Where's the spare tire and equipment to change a tire? / Look under the hood at the engine.
Find out if you have front or rear wheel drive. / Does your vehicle have A.B.S. brakes?
Get help from a family member to show and familiarize you with the vehicle.*
- *Do all the written assignments homework, presentations and all classroom tests, etc.
- *If not doing well, see us immediately and talk to your classroom teacher or the office.
- *Come with an attitude to learn.

How to do well when taking Progressive Driving School: In-Car Lessons.

- * Go over all your notes
- * Attend all in-car lessons.
- * Try not to be too afraid, your instructor knows what they are doing and will look after you.
- * Show up on time: if you have to cancel or cannot attend a lesson, give your instructor as much notice as possible (24 hours).
- * Your attitude towards the driving lessons and learning new skills / techniques is important; you will make mistakes when you learn, don't let it get to you; ask the instructor how you can improve and what specifically you should practice to improve (get feedback)?
- * Also talk to your instructor and/or get a family member to talk and ask questions on your progress.
- * If you don't understand, don't be afraid to get them to repeat something or show you.
- * Practice as much as possible, especially what you have been taught on your last lesson.
(If you don't or can't practice, tell your instructor before the lesson.)
